	The Isolation and Quarantine Support (Wraparound Services) program connects people who are in isolation due to COVID-19 with a Community Health Worker (CHW)

Project Description	from a culturally specific Community-Based Organization (CBO). The CHW supports the person or family who is isolating due to a positive COVID-19 test by arranging food delivery, accessing funds to pay rent or mortgage and utilities. The CHW also supports the person or family by helping navigate other resources that support health and mental well-being. The funding for wraparound services has been vital to support people being able to stay home during their infectious period which prevents the spread of COVID-19 in our community.

The team coordinates efforts with community-based organizations, FQHCs and non-governmental agencies to promote and operationalize vaccine equity goals to achieve a vaccine rate of 80% or greater of the primary series in our target populations. The program supports multiple CBOs in their vaccine outreach by linking vaccinators with CBO events. Funding of both clinical and non-clinical staffing support to local FQHC has allowed capacity building of the COVID Center to improve access to COVID vaccine, testing and treatment to all residents regardless of their immigration or insurance status.

Brief description of structure and objectives of assistance program(s), including public health or negative economic impact experienced	As we transition from direct services, our goal is to strengthen community partnerships with organizations that provide health/wellness outreach and services and to support local FQHCs in the administration of vaccines to all persons regardless of insurance and immigration status.
Brief description of recipient's approach to ensuring that response is reasonable and proportional to a public health or negative economic impact of Covid-19	Community Based Organizations, community champions and health workers remain key to shifting the direction of vaccine hesitancy. Our program continued to support low barrier access, CBO expansion in community health and ongoing education that is culturally relevant. Vaccine strategy, staffing and resource allocation evolves as demand for vaccine has evolved at different times in the pandemic; health equity goals focus on priority populations to meet vaccine equity goals.

Our objective was a model that prioritizes limited testing resources for populations disproportionately affected by COVID-19 that have not historically had access to testing. This effort was supported utilizing metrics pioneered in the vaccine roll-out. This quarter, Washington County distributed 4,896 COVID-19 testing kits to community based organizations, homeless service sites, and facilities, These tests are then distributed directly to community members .

Brief description of recipient's approach to ensuring that response is reasonable and proportional to a public health or negative economic impact of Covid-19	Access to COVID-19 testing helps to support early detection of COVID-19, which allows community members to isolate and prevent further disease in the community. A positive test detected early in the course of the illness also enables the individual to seek treatment earlier, likely reducing disease severity or even death.

Mitigation of health disparities by tracking COVID-19 cases and monitoring the impact on racial and ethnic minorities via case numbers. Support for large and small businesses with infection prevention guidance continues as employers work towards recovery and ongoing resiliency.
Brief description of recipient's approach to ensuring that response is reasonable and proportional to a public health or negative economic impact of Covid-19	Public health strategy in Washington County is the efficient/accurate use of clean data to identify gaps and trends in the community regarding on information that includes viral transmission, hospitalization rates, vaccine and testing uptake. Project Description	This program leads efforts to reach and inform those most impacted by the pandemic. At the start of the pandemic, our Latinx population was the most disproportionately impacted with about 50% of cases occurring among this population even though people who identify as Latinx make up only 15-17% of the total county population. Latinx community members also had significantly lower rates of vaccination than other ethnic/racial groups, so our efforts are focused on creating materials to reach the Latinx/Spanish-speaking population as well as the English-speaking population. We also focused efforts on reaching populations that were more likely to get COVID because they were essential workers who didn't have the privilege of working from home.

Brief description of structure and objectives of assistance program(s), including public health or negative economic impact experienced	The communications team ensures that important COVID health information reaches the communities most impacted by COVID-19. There are many long-term economic and health impacts on people who get COVID, including time away from work, increased healthcare and other costs that contribute to inequity, and because one out of five people who get COVID may also suffer long-term health consequences, the negative economic and health effects can last a lifetime.
Brief description of recipient's approach to ensuring that response is reasonable and proportional to a public health or negative economic impact of Covid-19	At the beginning of the pandemic, people who identified as Hispanic/Latinx in Washington County were 6 times more likely to be diagnosed with COVID-19 compared to people who are not Hispanic/Latinx. Project Description	The Public Health COVID-19 Communications program leads communications efforts to reach, educate, and inform those most impacted by the pandemic. In our county, the Latinx population was the most disproportionately impacted with about half of COVID cases occurring among this population even though people who identify as Latinx make up only 15 to 17% of the total population. Our communications efforts focused on creating materials to reach the Latinx and Spanish-speaking population along with our English speaking population. We also focused on populations that were more likely to get COVID because they lived in multi-generational housing, congregate living centers or because they were essential workers who didn't have the privilege of working from home during the pandemic. Because of ARPA funding we were able to hire a temporary bi-lingual/bi-cultural communicator to reach our Latinx/Spanish speaking population. We provided media interviews, created and updated COVID-19 pages in English and Spanish, created and updated COVID-19 web pages in English and Spanish, worked with community organizations to create shared vaccination education campaigns, created written materials in many languages, created comprehensive vaccination equity reports, and responded to community requests. These efforts have helped to reduce the disproportionate impact of the pandemic on our Latinx population, improved relationships with community-based organizations, and improved vaccine and testing access for community members who face language, economic, social, and other barriers.
